

St Wilfrid's NEWSLETTER

What a wonderful World Book day we had on Thursday. The children loved coming into school in their own clothes and there was a buzz throughout school for the whole day. The sunshine definitely helped and the children even had the opportunity to read outside in the sunshine. We had the author, Steve Webb in school. He read some of his books and explained how he goes about getting ideas and developing these ideas into stories and pictures. The children really enjoyed the workshops where they had chance to develop their artwork and ideas for creative, fun language. The children had the chance to swap a book from home. It was lovely to welcome parents and family in at the end of the day to take part and hear about our lovely day.

We have enjoyed another lovely Golden Time today and the children are beginning to understand how it works and look forward to this exciting part of the week.

In our Gospel assembly this week we thought about what makes St. Wilfrid's a very special school and community. We talked about how we care for one another in our family, our friends within our school community and beyond. This Lent the children will be thinking about how they can help others our wider community by raising money for the Good Shepherd fund. The children will be deciding in their class groups about what they are going to do in their class to raise money.

Have a lovely afternoon everyone.
